

Jefferson Smith.... The Brilliant Boy Scout?

Comic relief has struck the highest lawmaking body of the United States government. Everyone's talking about the buzz in Washington! There's a filibuster on the senate floor!

Recently appointed senator Jefferson Smith, a youth leader and head of the Boy Rangers program, has held the senate floor for over 20 hours straight! His colleagues call him crazy, but Smith charges Senator Payne of graft and corruption in relation to a dam construction project in their home state.

Whether Smith is making erroneous charges or Payne is guilty as charged has yet to be determined. What is evident, however, is that this Boy Scout is not a quitter! No sir. Jefferson Smith has an axe to grind, and he's determined to fight it out until the cows come home... or until he's been hauled out of the Senate chamber in a straight jacket to the loony bin!
